

Ninnekah Public School Foundation Internet Program

A benefit for Ninnekah Public Schools Faculty, Staff, Board & Students

CODE of CONDUCT

Participation in the Foundation Internet Program is a privilege and not a right. The Foundation reserves the right to revoke eligibility for the internet program for any individual that uses behavior that is abusive, inappropriate, unprofessional, or which is contrary to the expectations outlined in district rules, handbooks, and policies.

Abusive behavior will be considered any behavior that that a reasonable person would find hostile, offensive, intimidating or humiliating, and unrelated to legitimate educational interests. Abusive conduct also includes sabotaging or intentionally interfering with others' work or educational performance.

Unprofessional behavior is behavior that would not be accepted in a reasonable workplace or educational environment. Such behaviors include but are not limited to: Intimidation or bullying; sexual harassment; rude, offensive or abusive language; persistent lateness without valid and reasonable cause; retribution and violent threats; refusal to perform legitimate assigned tasks; demands for special attention and treatment; or uncooperative behavior.

Inappropriate behavior will be considered any behavior of a topic, tone, or nature that is vulgar, offensive, distracting or otherwise damaging to the educational environment. This may include, not limited to, clothing that violates the school dress code, foul language or explicit topics that violate school decorum.

All participants are expected to behave in a way that conforms to the expectations outlined in district rules, regulations, handbooks, and policies.

Participants are required to agree to this Code of Conduct.

Violations of the Code of Conduct may result in the temporary or permanent loss of internet program privileges at the sole discretion of the Foundation. Participants who lose these privileges may still be liable for fees to complete their one-year commitment and will not receive refunds of any kind.
